Welcome to Evening of Bluegrass III

Tonight's show is the third Evening of Bluegrass that the Plaza Theatre has produced since we re-opened the doors in April of 2005 after the restoration of the theatre.

Each show has been a great success with some of the best local and regional Bluegrass groups performing on stage.

Tonight's show, in addition to being great entertainment, is a fund raiser for the Plaza Theatre. One of the things that was not renovated in the restoration of the Plaza was the stage rigging system. The rigging system is all of the ropes and pulleys and cables above the stage that allow curtains to open and close and pieces of scenery to fly up in the air above the stage. This ability to change backdrops is something that the Plaza Theatre desperately needs - not only for itself but for Glasgow High School that does a musical here each year and for the community theatre group, The Far Off Broadway Players, that do three shows a year here. Additionally, some parts of the rigging system are over 50 years old and are not safe and have had to be locked off from use.

Your ticket purchase tonight is going directly toward the renovation of the rigging system. We have already had the system inspected by a nationally recognized rigging company and we have a structural engineering firm coming in to test the strength of the steel structure above the stage. But to complete these inspections and replace the rigging system will cost approximately $80,000.00. So over this season we are hosting several fund raising events and tonight's show is one of them.

So sit back and enjoy some great music and know that your ticket money is going to a great cause - to help the Plaza Theatre and the many local and community groups that use it.
